Corporate Training in Organizational and Motivational Savvy

Consultant Bio

Moira Garvey helps individuals at all organizational levels increase performance and amplify their positive impact on their companies and communities. As Principal Consultant and founding member, of Jupiter Consulting Group, an international consulting firm, Moira is dedicated to “Adding Life back into Work.

Moira’s leadership coaching and team performance consultations leverage her considerable skills and knowledge in areas such as change management, team dynamics, productivity, and leadership effectiveness. Grounded in extensive organizational development experience, her approach integrates the latest methodologies used to increase performance and personal satisfaction, including the neuroscience of change, mindfulness, leadership resilience, and positive psychology.

Over the last 25 years, Moira has successfully led internal teams within a Fortune 80 company and consulted to numerous small businesses, nonprofits, and Fortune 500 companies, including Facebook, Dow, Pepsi, and United Technologies. She coaches clients through the full spectrum of change management, from creative “what if” thinking through the practical strategic steps that create lasting results.

Moira develops a trusted partnership with each client, one in which her blend of analysis, pragmatism, and intuitive insights help them access unique leadership skills even as they identify blind spots that may be hindering progress. As clients explore new opportunities and challenges, they experience renewed energy, creative capacity, and deeper purpose. Many clients not only achieve unprecedented success in business—they lead more integrated and satisfying lives.

She has a Master’s degree in Organizational Behavior from California School of Professional Psychology in Berkeley, CA. Her Bachelor’s degree is from Holy Cross College in Worcester, MA. Moira is a faculty member for Holy Cross’ Summer Business Program and serves as an Adviser to the Ciocca Office of Entrepreneurial Studies. In 2012, she has been invited to speak at the Executive Coaching Conference and the Women Leadership conferences in New York city sponsored by The Conference Board.

Moira is actively engaged in her local community, particularly in the area of urban education. She regularly seeks out wide-open spaces, from mountaintops to ocean shores, and finds expansion in music, reading, meditation, and tennis. She relishes time with her husband and two daughters, who bring necessary levity to her life.
